SOME TIPS FOR DEALING WITH FROZEN WATER LINES

It's still winter here in Minnesota and still possible for water lines to freeze. Here are some ideas to help -

You can call a service company if you're not sure how to deal with the problem or maybe don't want to. You should always have some names on hand just in case.

Always check your heat tape and outlet before calling anyone. Make sure it is plugged in and you have power to the outlet.

Check the water line. If you have ONLY hot or cold, try forcing warm air into the floor by closing heat vents and turning your heat up.

Don't turn your heat down too far in very cold weather. Recommended temperature is about 70 degrees, especially in older homes.

If your heat tape needs replacing, we do have some available here at the office for you to purchase.

Ice Dams on your roof

Ice dams form when warm air from inside your home warms the underside of the roof, or when warm air leaks from your home through roof vents, causing the snow on the roof to melt. The water that backs up behind the dam can leak into your home and cause damage to walls and ceilings. To prevent this we always recommend to remove at least the first 2 feet of snow off the edges of your roof. Evergreen Village has roof rakes available for you to use if you are able to do it yourself or you could contact a roofing specialist to do the work for you.
